Grow Your Own Food Through Volunteer Gardening

- Go to www.foodshareregistry.org and register to volunteer.
- Check out the Google Map to find a volunteer garden near you.
- Grow food in a neighbor's yard and split the produce.

This is a free service.

Many home-owners lack the time, or health to develop their yards into productive gardens.

With your help, acres of fallow land within our own suburbs can become high-production garden.

"The most productive form of agriculture in the world is the well-watered backyard garden." - Cicero, Gibbons 'Decline and Fall'
